

HERRIARD GREEN

Herriard Green update December 2009

Due to the unbelievably wet weather, Herriard Green has at times looked more like a battlefield than a building site!

However, with all the roofs on, work has been able to continue inside in the dry whilst the scheduled landscaping works outside has had to be put on hold until the rain subsides.

With the under floor heating now installed, the focus on the Pavilion up until Christmas will be plastering and finishing off the veranda. Hopefully, we will get some kinder weather that will also allow the landscaping to start.

Bewley have now started discretely marketing the three houses and in the lead-up to Christmas you may see advertisements in The Country Life, Vogue, Tatler, GQ, and House & Gardens magazines.

With the Christmas holidays coming up it is especially important for people to be vigilant with regards to security, so if you see anything suspicious in the area please call the police.

A very happy Christmas and peaceful New Year to all!
